

Hannah Hogan

After meeting with a professor in the Health Informatics & Information Management department last year, I decided to transfer to Louisiana Tech to pursue this prestigious degree in the healthcare industry. HIIM will allow me to make a difference in the medical field without providing direct patient care. I've learned about the endless opportunities and infinite paths that it will present me with. I am so fortunate and thankful to be taught by professors with immeasurable knowledge and years of experience, who truly care about advancing my career. Most importantly, I am constantly encouraged to work hard and be successful with whatever I choose to do. I am positive that I have been provided with enough skills, tools, and intelligence to go out and make a difference in healthcare, and this is solely because of the inspirational HIIM faculty at Louisiana Tech.

